Sabino D'Argenio (b. 1973) is a contemporary artist working across sculpture, video, animation, site-specific installation and new media. Classically trained as a sculptor at the Accademia di Belle Arti di Brera in Milan, his practice moves from drawing and conceptual sculpture toward interactive technologies, exploring movement, suspension, the city as space, and social dynamics. He represented Italy at the Media City Seoul Biennale (2002) and Rendez-vous, Lyon Biennale (2007), and has been reviewed in Le Monde, La Croix and Sud Ouest.
